

March 2014 Vol.34 No.2
PUBLISHED BIMONTHLY

Inflammation and Regeneration

Official Journal of Japanese Society of Inflammation and Regeneration (JSIR) and Asia-Pacific Federation of Inflammation and Regeneration (APFIR)

Theme: Genomic Era
Guest Editor: Koichiro Ohmura

Published since 1981

Free access and free download - <http://jsir.gr.jp/>

The image shows genomic DNA of iPS cells sequenced by massively parallel sequencer. Each spot indicates a signal from one DNA fragment., and signals of red, cyan, blue, and green indicate A, T, G, and C at a certain base position, respectively. After acquisition of images, these sequences are mapped to reference sequence of human genome, and are subjected to calling of single nucleotide variations.